Mail Account Incoming mail Bouncing & outgoing mail

Enable bouncing of messages from this account

The email address for this account is required as email does not always specify the address it is sent to.

Email Address:

Specifying the SMTP server provided by your ISP enables a bounce notice to be sent when a connection cannot be made to the machine that sent you the email. Often using your ISP's SMTP server is the only way to bounce an email.

Get the Mail. Mail from blacklisted senders will show up marked for deletion. Look through your mail and choose Bounce to send back, delete if you just don't want to read it, blacklist to ban the sender or leave it alone to keep the message.

When you are done, Process the Mail will send junk mail back to sender, delete unwanted mail and then call your regular program up to take only the messages you want.

After a while, the senders tire of bounced mail and remove you from their list! To be most effective, also install and run AdAware to remove the hidden spy files that send out your e-mail address to everyone.
